This task card discusses the following:

- What is the partnership approach?
- Is the partnership approach mandatory?
- The partnership approach data items
- More information
- List of partnership approach data items

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

- Organisations can record extended data and outcomes information and access additional reports.
- Contact your funding arrangement manager to opt-in to the partnership approach.
- All partnership approach items are voluntary unless specified by your program / policy area.

What is the partnership approach?

The partnership approach is an extended data set of information that organisations can collect and report on via the Data Exchange, in return for access to a set of additional self-service reports. The partnership approach also provides the opportunity for organisations to record and share the outcomes that their clients are achieving with the Department.

Where it is not specified in their grant agreement, an organisation should contact their funding arrangement manager if they wish to opt-in to the partnership approach.

Is the partnership approach mandatory?

An organisation should refer to their grant opportunity guidelines and grant agreement to verify if this is a requirement of funding.

The partnership approach data items

A complete list of all data items can be found in the Data Exchange Protocols, Section 11 List of data values. A condensed listing can be found in the List of partnership approach data items found in this task card. Refer Table 1.
